INNOVATION UPDATE FROM ISRAEL IDEAS

One Scoop or Two? Ask Your Smart Spoon!

Sugar consumption rates are at an all-time high, threatening quality of life and health around the globe. According to the Surgeon General, in the US alone, two-thirds of adults and nearly one in three children are overweight or obese. The average American consumes 150-170 pounds of sugar annually, according to the USDA, and that's why one in three Americans is expected to have diabetes by 2050. Israeli startup Valiber has developed a spoon-like tool that measures the exact levels of sweetness found in drinks and foods. With the "swizzle," consumers can easily learn exactly how much sugar is too much sugar, or the point at which adding more sugar really makes no difference. In other words, why add two teaspoons of sugar when one is enough for you? For more information: <http://www.israelideas.org/#!current/c1gqf>

JTS DAY OF LEARNING

In Pursuit of the Good Life

How do we live a "good life?" In a world of competing values, it is not always easy to determine the right path. How can the teachings of our tradition inform our decision making in the many facets of our lives? Together we will explore a range of Jewish sources and consider what they suggest about how to live as individuals and as members of Jewish and global communities. JTS scholars will address some of the moral choices that we confront regularly—from what we eat, to what values we transmit to our children—and discuss the broader role of ethics, values, and Torah in the quest for a well-lived life.
