INNOVATION UPDATE FROM ISRAEL IDEAS

Israeli Tech Helps Mexican Rescuers Locate Quake Victims

Radio-wave technology developed by Israeli firm Camero-Tech that can “see” through solid walls is helping rescue workers in Mexico search through rubble for buried victims. Amir Beeri, the CEO of the firm said, “We got reports from our representative in Mexico that our technology is being used there by the rescue workers and he sent us TV images that show our systems in use.” The company’s “sense-through-the-wall” imaging technology uses radio waves to map the layout of areas that are blocked by bricks or any other material. The radio waves penetrate the rubble and get signals back from within. These signals are then analyzed by powerful algorithms which are able to detect in real time if there is movement or breathing within the destruction, indicating there is someone alive that needs to be rescued. The system also allows users to pinpoint the location of the person or people trapped within the building, even if they are unconscious, Beeri said. Har Zion Celebrates Sukkot and Simhat Torah

Following services on the evenings of October 4, 5 and 6, Kiddush will be in the Maurice A. Kendall Sukkah. Please park on that side of the building. When you arrive signs and cones will direct you accordingly.

Thursday, October 5 – First Day of Sukkot

9:30 AM - Morning Service – Come pick up your lulav and etrog (or you can use one of ours) and join the joyous procession of the Four Species encircling our Sanctuary followed by festive Kiddush

10:45 AM - Tot Sukkot – Musical Service led by Rabbi Allen, Debbie Folz and Beverly Goldberg.

Kids – You can “make your own sukkah and eat it too!”

6:20 PM - Minha/Maariv

Friday, October 6 – Second Day of Sukkot

9:30 AM - Morning Service – see Thursday morning schedule

6 PM - Minha/Maariv

Sunday, October 8

9:30 AM - 12:30 PM - JFGRS classes visit the Sukkah

12:30-3 PM - HZT Youth Sukkah Fest (All 5th-7th graders) – Free admission, soccer, football, ultimate fresbee, holiday arts & crafts. RSVP to Ben Rotenberg, brotenberg@harziontemple.org

Tuesday, October 10

Come read.
Come home.

4 I further observed^a all the oppression that goes on under the sun: the tears of the oppressed, with none to comfort them; and the power of their oppressors—with none to comfort them. ²Then I accounted those who died long since more fortunate than those who are still living; ³and happier than either are those who have not yet come into being and have never witnessed the miseries that go on under the sun.

4I have also noted that all labor and skillful enterprise come from men's envy of each other—another futility and pursuit of wind!

⁵ [True,]
The fool folds his hands together^b
And has to eat his own flesh.

⁶ [But no less truly,]
Better is a handful of gratification
Than two fistfuls of labor which is pursuit of wind.

⁷And I have noted this further futility under the sun: ⁸the case of the man who is alone, with no companion, who has neither son nor brother; yet he amasses wealth without limit, and his eye is never sated with riches. For whom, now, ^cis he amassing it while denying himself^c enjoyment? That too is a futility and an unhappy business.

⁹Two are better off than one, in that they have greater^d benefit from^e their earnings. ¹⁰For should they fall, one can raise the other; but woe betide him who is alone and falls with no companion to raise him! ¹¹Further, when two lie together they are warm; but how can he who is alone get warm? ¹²Also, if one attacks, two can stand up to him. A threefold cord is not readily broken!

¹³Better a poor but wise youth than an old but foolish king who no longer has the sense to heed warnings. ¹⁴For the former can emerge from a dungeon to become king; while the latter, even if born to kingship, can become a pauper.^f ¹⁵[However,] I reflected about ^gall the living who walk under the sun with^g that youthful successor who steps into his place. ¹⁶Unnumbered are the multitudes of all those who preceded them;^h and later generations will not acclaim him either.ⁱ For that^j too is futile and pursuit of wind.

¹⁷ ^kBe not overeager to go^k to the House of God: more acceptable is obedience than the offering of fools, for they know nothing [but] to do wrong.

5 Keep your mouth from being rash, and let not your throat^a be quick to bring forth speech before God. For God is in heaven and you are on earth; that is why your words should be few. ²Just as dreams come with much brooding, so does foolish utterance come with much speech. ³When you make a vow to God, do not delay to fulfill it.
