INNOVATION UPDATE FROM ISRAEL IDEAS

Parisians Turn to Facebook Made-In-Israel Tech to Check on Loved Ones

"During the 24 hours after the terror attack, 4.1 million people checked in with friends and relatives using Facebook Safety Check, a technology developed by Facebook Israel's research and development department," said a spokesperson for Facebook Israel. "A total of 360 million people received messages that their loved ones were safe." Safety Check is a feature that Facebook has activated several times in the past, usually for natural disasters. The Paris attacks were the first time it was used to enable people to "check in" and let others know they were safe in a terror attack scenario. According to Alex Schultz, Facebook's vice president of Growth, "In the middle of a complex, uncertain situation affecting many people, Facebook became a place where people were sharing information and looking to understand the condition of their loved ones... This activation will change our policy around Safety Check and when we activate it for other serious and tragic incidents in the future.
