Everyone loves a nice houseplant, but taking care of it often gets put on the back burner. A day here and a day there without watering or trimming — and pretty soon, you have a dead plant. It's happened to you, right?

It doesn't have to be this way. Israel agri-tech start-up Agrolan connects your plants to your home wi-fi system, which will remind you what to do and when to do it, to care for your plants. This isn't the Internet of Things you have heard about, it is the Internet of Living Things! For more information: <http://www.israelideas.org/#!in-the-spotlight/c200w>
