INNOVATION UPDATE FROM

A Game-Changing Solution For Cheaper, Greener, More Efficient Car Parks

Conventional parking garages are an environmental failure, taking up lots of land and resources to build and maintain, and waste gasoline as waiting cars idle and then troll for a vacant spot and maneuver into and out of it. While mechanical parking is not a new idea, the Israeli solution offers revolutionary financial and ecological benefits and does not require any devices or systems aside from the robot.

With the Unitronics robot, you can drive your car into a 20-by-20 foot entry bay, turn off the engine, lock up, take a ticket and go on your way. The rest of the process is fully automated. After you leave the bay, a Unitronics robot scoots under the car, engages the wheels and lifts the vehicle using a combination of radar, optical sensors and cameras. It transports your car to the destination spot and positions it perfectly with no chance of a fender scrape or space-hogging poor parking. THE PASSOVER PROJECT

A Jewish Campaign Against Slavery

This year, Har Zion Temple joins an ever-growing number of Jewish institutions across the country bringing awareness to the plight of slaves around the world today. Slavery is not legal anywhere, but it is practiced everywhere. Slavery is found wherever goods or services depend on manual labor. Worldwide, an estimated 21 to 36 million people are trapped and working without pay, under threat of violence. According to the International Labour Organization (ILO), slavery generates about $150 billion a year in profits for human traffickers.

Each week between now and Pesah, the Festival of Our Freedom, we will present you with materials which will both enhance your seder experience as well as to suggest things that you can do to relieve the plight of slaves in the world today.

For more information you may go to this website: www.freetheslaves.net/Judaism.

When Introducing the Seder Plate

Place a photo of cocoa beans on the Seder plate. When introducing the Seder plate, the leader can add: "This is a photo of cocoa beans. About half of all cocoa beans grown today come from the Ivory Coast, where child trafficking and slave child labor in the cocoa fields is prevalent. It is on our Seder plate to painfully remind us that slavery still exists today. Let us add our voices to those working for the production of Fair Trade Kosher L'Pesah chocolate next year!"

Reading for Charoset

Using mortar and bricks, the Jewish slaves built the pyramids. The charoset reminds us of the mortar, a symbol of unrewarded toil. We remember how our ancestors' work enriched the lives of the Egyptians, and challenge ourselves to think about the ways that many of us currently benefit from exploited labor. Tonight we eat charoset to also remember all the trafficked and enslaved children in the Ivory Coast who toil in the cocoa fields, harvesting the cocoa pods from which our favorite chocolates are made. For Jews, the descendants of slave laborers who build the pyramids, such profit should never be sweet. Instead, we take the sweetness of charoset as a symbol of resistance and the possibility of liberation for all.
