INNOVATION UPDATE FROM ISRAEL IDEAS

Warding Off the Next Influenza Outbreak

Renewed urgency for a better flu vaccine has again hit the headlines, as health officials in the United States sum up the outgoing flu season's death toll and warns of possible future pandemics.
Hoping to keep the next possible influenza epidemic at bay, the National Institutes of Health this week announced its new Phase 2 clinical trial of investigational universal influenza vaccine — the M-001 vaccine candidate, developed and produced by BiondVax Pharmaceuticals based in Ness Ziona, Israel – which it hopes will prove protection against multiple strains of the virus.
